BULK OF JAPANESE SEA POWER STAGES DESPERATE RETREAT

U. S. Battleships Believed Pursuing Battered Armada

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH
Associated Press War Editor

The United States, toughened and tried by six months of largely defensive warfare since Pearl Harbor now seems to have wrested the initiative from Japan in the battle of the Pacific, at the same time readying for active entry into the battle of Europe.

With what was perhaps a significant reference to the handicap which the presence of civilians sometimes imposes on operations of land forces—"particularly, of friendly troops"—Britain called today upon the population of French coastal belt, from Belgium to Spain, to evacuate the zone at all costs.

The hard face of Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, commander of the Japanese combined fleet, must indeed be red today for having sent the bulk of his naval power into the destructive trap at Midway Island—a stumble that may have recast the balance of naval power in the Pacific.

The powerful Japanese task force evidently was under orders to occupy Midway Island as a stepping stone in eastward offensive strategy when combined sea and air forces of the United States struck it last week and started running up a score which, at latest tabulation, added up to the most humiliating defeat in Japanese naval history.

At least three and possibly four Japanese ships sunk and 11 or more damaged as against hits on an American aircraft carrier and loss of one American destroyer were the tally last night when Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the U. S. Pacific fleet, announced that contact with the battered, fleeing enemy had been lost.

This, however, did not mean that pursuit had been abandoned. The rolling horizons of the Pacific veiled the course of the chase. It was likely that besides the Japanese ships already on the bottom still others would never make port.

All this no doubt made a bitter taste for the 58-year-old Yamamoto, who once cherished the dream of steaming triumphantly into San Francisco harbor and dictating peace terms at Washington.

Battle maneuvers of an unspecified nature, subsidiary to the fight off Midway, were believed to be still in progress as a result of last week's Japanese air-sea thrust at Dutch Harbor, the Aleutian island base of the United States far to the north of Midway.

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, said in Washington (Turn to Page Nine)

Australian Cities Raided

Allied Headquarters, Australia, June 8.—(P)—Japanese submarines, slipping ashore under cover of darkness, shelled Sydney and Newcastle during last night in the first sea-borne attack on the Australian mainland since the start of the war. (Exchange Telegraph said the shells were of "German origin.")

An official announcement said the shelling caused no military damage and there was only one casualty, Edward Hirsch, 40, a refugee who left Germany five years ago, suffered a broken leg in Sydney where shells slightly damaged a block of flats.

In Newcastle, little damage was caused aside from broken windows. A blackout covering coastal areas and in some cases as far as 100 miles inland was ordered effective tonight in New South Wales.

The attack following by one week an unsuccessful raid on Sydney harbor by Japanese midget submarines, four of which were destroyed before they could do more than sink an old harbor vessel.

Still Possible to Motor To Canada, A. A. A. Officials Say

Washington, June 8.—(P)—Pennsylvania vacationists who like to fish in Canada may do so this month—provided they are able to accumulate enough gasoline to get out of the rationed eastern areas.

That is the stand taken by the Office of Price Administration, the American Automobile Association reports. However, holders of "X" cards for unlimited supplies of gasoline are not expected to use the fuel for vacations or other non-essential travel, OPA Chief Leon Henderson has ruled.

Motorists holding "A" and "B" cards on their own as far as the use of gasoline is concerned, if they can save up the units by

FUEL RATION PROPOSAL IN EAST SET UP

Under Tentative Plan Motorists Would Be Permitted Nearly Four Gallons a Week

TO TIGHTEN CONTROL

Washington, June 8.—(P)—President Roosevelt indicated today to a house committee that he might make a fireside chat to the people on the rubber and gasoline problems as soon as he completed a study of the situation and assembled the facts.

The committee, headed by Representative Kieberg (D-Tex.), was created by an informal meeting of legislators opposed to nationwide gasoline rationing until the reasons for it were fully developed and the "facts" presented to congress.

Washington, June 8.—(P)—East coast motorists will get an average basic ration of nearly four gallons of gasoline a week under the regular coupon-book system starting next month, Joel Dean, OPA fuel rationing administrator, said today.

Under the present temporary program, non-essential drivers are allowed about three gallons weekly. Dean told reporters the additional ration would be permitted because of tighter controls made possible under the new plan. Considerably fewer "B" coupons will be issued, Dean explained, since motorists will be required to prove need for supplemental allowances.

They must show to the satisfaction of local rationing boards that use of their cars is required in their businesses, that they have formed transportation "pools" of not less than four persons, or that no other means of transportation is available to get them to and from work.

The east coast plan, expected to serve as a model if nationwide rationing is instituted, is based on an allowance of 2,880 miles of driving a year for the average "non-essential" motorist.

Basic "A" Books will be issued to every passenger-car driver who (Turn to Page Ten)

"FLASH" FLOOD AIDS FIREMEN FIGHT BLAZE

Uniontown, June 8.—(P)—A "flash" flood, caused by water rushing down from two mountain reservoirs, both hampered and aided Hopwood firemen summoned to fight a fire at the Coolspring home of Lawrence Coburn last night.

With water flowing along the road up to the hubcaps of the truck, the volunteers had to hold onto a fence and a rope to keep from being swept away as they sloshed toward the house.

But as there was plenty of water handy, they merely had to drop a suction hose in the middle of the flooded road. The pumper started up and the blaze was out in short order.

The reservoirs overflowed after 1.85 inches of rain fell in an hour.

Appropriation Of 39 Billion Is Requested

Washington, June 8.—(P)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for a new appropriation of $39,417,827,337 for the war department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1943.

If granted, his request, made in a memorandum to Speaker Rayburn, would boost to more than $200,000,000,000 the war chest approved by congress for the three years ending June 30, 1943.

Previous appropriations and authorizations for the armed services are estimated by appropriations committee attaches at approximately $165,000,000,000.

In January the president asked for $6,388,091,747 for the war department's regular activities for the next fiscal year, with the (Turn to Page Ten)

Decision Near on Drafting of Youths

Washington, June 8.—(P)—President Roosevelt approached a decision today on the issue of drafting youths 18 and 19 years old for the nation's fighting services, calling in Major General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, to talk over the problem.

Mr. Roosevelt has taken no position publicly on the question of drafting youths in this age group, who now are exempt from selective service. Hershey has pointed out that in every major war the country has called on youths of 18 and 19 to augment its armed services.

Congress would be required to enact legislation if the present restrictions were lifted.

AP Chief In Capital Dies Unexpectedly

Brian Bell, Stricken at Ball Game, Victim of Heart Attack

INTERESTING CAREER

Washington, June 8.—(P)—Brian Bell, chief of the Washington bureau of the Associated Press and known by newspapermen from coast to coast, died at his Arlington, Va., home this morning at 5:40.

The 52-year-old native of South Carolina had headed the Washington office of the Associated Press since January 1, 1939, after serving in Atlanta, Ga., New Orleans, New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco. He was a member of the staff of The State, Columbia, S. C., for 15 years before joining the Associated Press.

Widely-known as a sports writer, Bell was stricken yesterday as he watched the Washington-Detroit baseball game. His physician said he suffered an acute coronary thrombosis at the ball park. A second this morning at 5:40 proved fatal.

Funeral plans will be announced later. Mrs. Bell, who before her marriage was Miss Alberta Harris, and two children, Brian, Jr., and Mrs. J. William Magee survive.

Bell really started his newspaper career while a lad wearing short pants at Gainesville, S. C., and advanced through the ranks of his chosen profession to one of the most responsible posts in the world, where he directed the largest staff assigned to coverage of the United States government.

He attended Presbyterian College at South Carolina, Davidson College and Washington and Lee University and was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of literature by Washington and Lee.

BODY OF 22ND FLOOD VICTIM IS RECOVERED

Honesdale, June 8.—(P)—The number of known dead from Wayne county's flash floods of two weeks ago rose to 22 today with the discovery of the body of Miss Louise R. Rouse, 60, Everett Knapp yesterday discovered the body in a pile of debris along the Lackawanna river bank three miles from here.

Two persons, 15-year-old Bernard Curtin and Donald Walter, 11, still are missing.

MYRNA WEDS AGAIN

New York, June 8.—(P)—Myrna Loy, the "perfect wife" of the films, was honeymooning today with a new husband one week after receiving a Reno divorce from Arthur Hornblow, Jr., motion picture producer. The 36-year-old actress and John D. Hertz, Jr., 33, advertising executive, were married here Saturday night by State Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora at the home of Hertz's sister, Mrs. Robert Loxton.

Less Traffic On Turnpike

Harrisburg, June 8.—(P)—War restrictions have cut deeply into passenger traffic on the $70,000,000 Pennsylvania Turnpike. Commission Chairman T. F. Evans reports, but trucking business is definitely on the upswing.

Reflecting shortage of gasoline and rubber, pleasure driving during May dropped more than 30 per cent below May 1941. The chairman asserted, while truck traffic increased 18 per cent and buses were up 10 per cent.

Only 116,908 passenger cars traveled the 160-mile long highway linking Harrisburg and Pittsburgh during May, compared with 192,609 a year ago. Trucks, however, numbered 27,278 compared with 22,585 in May, 1941, and buses were 2,023 compared with 1,513.

FRENCH ARE CAUTIONED TO EVACUATE

British Radio Broadcasts Warning For Residents To Flee From Broad Coastal Area

REASON UNEXPLAINED

London, June 6.—(P)—The British radio broadcast instructions to the French people today to evacuate a broad coastal area from the Belgian to the Spanish border, which strip the Germans have designated as a prohibited military zone.

"Operations of capital importance," for the liberation of France will start in due time, said the broadcast.

It has been shown on several occasions that the presence of the civilian population on the scene of active operations hinders the action of troops, and particularly of friendly troops, in a very grave manner," said the broadcast beamed across the channel in the regular French language news program.

British sources said that they could not interpret the bulletin, that it would have to stand for itself.

"The coastal regions of occupied France are likely to become more and more a theatre of war operations," the warning continued. "They will inevitably bring with them the gravest dangers for the civilian population."

The radio referred to "Notice No. 1," however, which was broadcast after the commando raids on the Germans' U-boat base at St. Nazaire March 28 when Frenchmen in that city took up arms and fought for three days after the British had departed.

Part of the first notice, as read by the announcer, said "Your role for the moment should be limited to the care of your own safety. Do everything you can to preserve your own lives. You will be needed by the armies of liberation. We give you formal assurance that when the hour comes to ask for active participation of the French people as a whole you will be warned of it."

"Here is Notice No. 2," the broadcast said. It added: "Don't wait until the last moment. It would be too late. Go (Turn to Page Ten)

Reds Holding A Spearhead

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY
Kalinin, Russia, June 8.—(P)—The Russian army is holding a spearhead deep in Germany's side on the Kalinin front, northwest of Moscow.

This explains why the Germans are making repeated reconnaissance raids and desperately resisting the Russian attacks here. A Red army officer told me on a visit to this base, one of the most active along the entire 2,000-mile Russian front.

The Germans fear a Russian thrust from the salient stretching farther west than Smolensk, and are making every effort to find out the Soviet strength. They are trying to keep meticulous check on troop movements.

The latest attack reported over the weekend was a reconnaissance in force, one of the largest local engagements in recent weeks. The Russians repulsed the assault, made by a full infantry battalion supported by artillery and tanks.

The terrain of the Kalinin front still is held in the grip of a long, wet spring and is not yet suitable for large-scale operations. United States tanks have been tried out here and have won the enthusiastic commendations of the Red army officers.

EARTH SLIDE HOLDS UP PASSENGER TRAIN

Rockport, June 8.—(P)—Tons of rock and mud which slipped down mountainsides to pile up on railroad tracks were slowly cleared away today as trains on the Lehigh Valley resumed operation.

Loosened by recent torrential rains, the avalanche blocked traffic on the Central Railroad of New Jersey lines and caused derailment of a passenger engine in the Rockport tunnel last night.

No one was hurt. About eight Jersey Central freight cars were thrown from the tracks.

CHINA HAPPY OVER RESULTS AT MIDWAY

Chungking, June 8.—(P)—Chinese editorial appraisal today of the battle of Midway: Combined Daily: "Midway marks the beginning of Japan's downfall."

New China Daily News (Communist): "Midway was a boomerang for the Japanese navy. Its invincibility has been blown to pieces by the American navy."

PROCLAMATION BY BURGESS

Citizens of Warren: The Warren County War Chest has opened its campaign for contributions to three agencies which are international as well as national in their scope—a campaign to raise $20,000 for the UNITED SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS, the NAVY RELIEF SOCIETY and for the UNITED CHINA RELIEF. Every one of these is an outstanding organization, each doing an admirable piece of work, necessary and essential to the cause in which the Allied Nations are now engaged. The duty of us who are not in active military service is apparent.

First, we must continue buying War Bonds to train and equip our fighting men. In this, Warren, as usual, has made splendid response, but after all, this is no gift. War Bonds are an income-producing investment.

Next, we must provide what comfort and assurance we can for our soldiers and sailors and allies. Our boys are fighting this war for you and for me. It is little enough that we can do for them. Nor can any word of mine add luster to the glory of China, whose people have fought on and on through unbelievable hardships.

Therefore, through our contributions to the Warren County War Chest, let each of us, according to his means, do his part in grateful recognition of what others are doing for us. Upon them depends our future peace and security.

Plans to Lower Leives to be Included in Platforms This Fall

CAMPAIGNS SHAPE UP

Harrisburg, June 8.—(P)—The prospect developed today that Republicans and Democrats—at odds on most everything else—will get together on the common goal of cutting Pennsylvania's taxes in 1943.

A tax reduction plan is expected to be included in the platform of each party for the November election.

Lending effectiveness to these reports were the remarks of Governor James over the weekend. He told a Republican state committee reorganization meeting in Philadelphia that if present trends continue "there will be a spread of $50,000,000 to $50,000,000 between our income and the expenses of the next fiscal biennium," and added taxes could be cut that amount "without sacrificing any of the present functions of state government."

James had insisted on waiting until the state's financial position was clarified at the end of the fiscal year last May 31 before discussing tax reductions.

Democrats, controlling the house, tried without success to cut the state's personal property and bank shares levies during the 1941 legislature. Both taxes were imposed in 1936 as part of the emergency program to finance relief and have been continued since.

During the recent special session Rep. Leo A. Acherman, Democratic floor leader in the house, tried again for a reduction but was unsuccessful. James had not included taxes in the list of subjects to be considered.

Neither party has formally completed arrangements for the fall campaign but Republicans named State Senator H. Harvey Taylor, of Harrisburg, as their state chairman. A committee of 17 will meet in Harrisburg during August to draw up the platform.

Democrats have called a meeting June 13 to pick a successor to State Chairman Meredith Meyers. He has expressed preference for John F. Breslin, an assistant in the office of Auditor General F. Clair Ross, Democratic candidate for governor.

GRADUATE KILLED

Washington, Pa., June 8.—(P)—Mildred Blackwell, 18, of Houton, was killed in an automobile accident on the Canonsburg-Muse highway early today. Miss Blackwell, a graduate of Charles township high school last week, was riding in a car which skidded, overturned and caught fire. Passing motorists extinguished the blaze.

Woman Killed By Lightning

By the Associated Press
Not a single fatal highway accident was reported in Pennsylvania over the weekend, although motor traffic in some parts of the gasoline-rationed area increased noticeably on Sunday.

The state was not without accidental deaths, however. At least two persons drowned and another was killed by lightning as mid-summer heat sent thousands to parks, swimming pools and resorts.

Mrs. Edward Brinker of Laurelville, near Greensburg, was killed by lightning as she was washing dishes in her cottage. Three other persons were shocked by the bolt, which apparently struck a tree in the yard and ran along an electric wire into the house.

AXIS DESERT ATTACKS ARE DRIVEN BACK

Great Tank Battle in Libya Roars Into 14th Day With Allies Holding The Upper Hand

FREE FRENCH ACTIVE

Cairo, Egypt, June 8.—(P)—The great tank battle in the Libyan desert roared into its 14th day today with the British and their Free French allies apparently holding the upper hand after repulsing new Axis attacks at Knightsbridge and Bir Hacheim.

The British reported that their artillery fire had smashed another attempt by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's columns yesterday to break through toward Tobruk, 15 miles northeast of Knightsbridge.

At the same time, a communiqué said, the Free French at Bir Hacheim threw back a tank assault at that position menacing the right flank of Rommel's forces.

It was the second time in as many days that the British had reported the Axis chieftain repulsed in an attempt to break through at Knightsbridge.

Yesterday, British headquarters said, Rommel twice hurled his full remaining armored strength into the British positions in this sector only to be beaten back.

Military quarters said that the Axis mechanized forces still were being reinforced through the gap in the British defenses. Between Ain El Gazala and Bir Hacheim, but it was believed that their lines of communication were severely strained under the continued pounding of British bombers.

It appeared that the British were trying to force a strong semicircle around Rommel's forces each of this gap preparatory to an attempt (Turn to Page Nine)

Pittsburgh, June 8.—(P)—A 13-year-old boy brought to trial on a charge of fatally shooting his sister because she "nagged" him wept today as he entered the courtroom and saw his mother and father sitting among the spectators.

Court attendants say they believed the boy, Vincent James Rocco of Swissvale, was the youngest person ever placed on trial in Allegheny county on a charge of murder.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Jack Rocco, wife of a shoemaker, wept too, as the boy walked into the courtroom in the custody of deputy sheriffs.

"Keep 'Em Fleeing" Urges Gen. Arnold

Washington, June 8.—(P)—Lieutenant General Henry H. Arnold, army air force chief, congratulated today the army fliers who helped rout the Japanese invasion fleet off Midway, exhorting the airmen to "keep 'em fleeing."

In a message to Lieutenant General Delos C. Emonds, commander of the army's Hawaiian department, General Arnold said: "You have given America great cause for rejoicing on this the half year anniversary of Pearl Harbor."

"You have proved what we have known all along, that our airmen and military aircraft are the finest on earth and that we will gain air supremacy over our enemies."

"The gratitude and admiration of every American are with you in this triumphant hour. 'Keep up the good work and keep 'em fleeing.'"

Excellent Showing Made In Sales of Bonds and Stamps

The War Savings Committee for Warren and Forest counties takes pleasure in announcing the results of War Savings Bond sales for the month of May. Warren county attained 172% of its quota and Forest county 217%. Given a quota for May of $116,700, the total of war bonds sold in Warren county reached $201,283.25, and this does not include a considerable sale of War Savings Stamps. Divided into the three series, these totals were: Series "E" $87,843.75, Series "F" $1,239.50, and Series "G" $112,200. In Forest county, with its very much smaller population and pay rolls, the May quota was $4,100, and the total purchases amounted to $8,590.75, divided into: Series "E" $7,776.25, Series "F" $684.50, and Series "G" $500.

The high percentage of quota attained compares with a national excess of 5.7% over the quota of 600 million dollars established for the entire country for the month of May.

While these totals are gratifying, a continuous and increased purchase of War Savings Bonds must be maintained in order to reach the Warren county quota of $158,400 and the Forest county quota of $6,500 for the month of June and increased quotas for following months. These are being increased in every community, and in the national total they will be increased in July in order to arrive during that month at a goal of one billion dollars a month needed to provide for the war effort. There are still several industries in which the pay roll allotment plan is not yet in full operation, and in the coming weeks there will be a further effort to establish the plan of having everyone who can possibly do so devote 10% of his income each month to the purchase of War Savings Bonds.

While the Treasury Department recognizes that this is important in many families, there are other instances where it can be done and is being done, sometimes by sacrifices and in other cases by the avoidance of unnecessary buying. As the Treasury Department has frequently pointed out, this will be one of the best means of controlling inflation and of investing increased earnings in a manner where the money will be returned with interest in a post war period when it will be needed by individuals and made available for the support of business during the years after the war.

Then turning right and west they followed up over the hill to the Farnsworth Run road and back to the starting point, covering a little more than five miles. On the return trip to town the group stopped at the Farnsworth Run fish rearing ponds, coming out via the Cherry Grove road.

SAVE FOOD

Cook foods in their skins whenever possible. Roast at low temperature in your gas oven and reduce meat shrinkage. Plan at least one casserole dish a week to use left-overs.

SAVE VITAMINS

Use very little water in cooking vegetables and cook only until "tender crisp." Bring to boil quickly over high gas flame, then turn flame down and boil gently. Use covered utensil to keep steam in. Do not add soda.

SAVE FUEL

Make full use of your gas oven or broiler by planning complete oven or broiler meals. Do not preheat your gas oven or broiler too long. Cold start is possible, if preferred. Avoid using small pans on large or giant burners.

Former Warren Boy Helps to Speed Drilling in Venezuela

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Johnson, Sr., of Tulsa, Okla., formerly of this city, will read with much interest the following article concerning their son, Charles, Jr., which recently appeared in the Tulsa Tribune:

With the United States and Caribbean sea areas facing the prospect of having to supply the entire United Nations war effort with critically-needed oil, one Tulsa firm stepped out the past week with a program to increase drilling efficiency and speed in Venezuela.

The company is Seismograph Service Corp., headed by C. H. Westby. A compact, self-sustaining "Seiscon" well logging unit, mounted on a truck, is ready to be shipped to South America.

Two men, Charles B. Johnson, Jr., manager, and P. J. Moore, instrument technician, already have left for Caracas. Johnson was accompanied by his wife.

Barnsdall Research Corp., originally developed the idea. Seismograph Service Corp. has exclusive foreign rights, and Baroid division of National Lead Co. has American rights. Engineering Laboratories, Inc., also a Tulsa institution, has done the manufacturing of the unit.

"Essentially," said Johnson, "the unit is a laboratory on wheels, which is linked to the drilling wells by a series of automatic indicators and samplers."

"By using it, we are able to eliminate most of the expensive and time-consuming coring in new wells. It speeds up drilling considerably, and at the same time records permanently a mass of changing data without which a lot of drilling is guesswork."

The unit, Johnson said, gives a foot-by-foot log as the well goes down, analyzing presence and quantity of oil, gas and water encountered. At the same time, it extracts samples of the drilling mud, so that the operators can determine the type of formation encountered, records the fluctuating weight on the drill bit, pump speed and pressure, drilling speed and other important factors.

"There even is a laboratory in the unit which enables the geologists to analyze cores themselves if the oil company desires them," said Johnson. "We also keep a constant check on mud characteristics."

Fifteen older, but similar, units now are in service in the United States, and between them have logged over 600 wells.

The unit which will be shipped to South America has been nearly five months under construction, and thousands of dollars worth of delicate instruments are hidden behind its panels.

"We probably will spend at least six months in this first phase of our work," said Johnson, "so we have taken plenty of spare parts along. We will have three or four times as many vacuum tubes in reserve as a unit carries in the United States. Normally, a unit here would have three or four gas detector filaments as spares. We will carry 20. We cannot take any chances of running out of a critically-needed part that far from home."

Johnson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Johnson, 15 W. Fifteenth street, graduated from Oklahoma University in 1932 with a degree in petroleum engineering.

He began working on mud analysis well-logging in 1937, and assisted John Hayward, of the Barnsdall Research Corp., in many of the early experiments which led to the logging unit. Johnson is "on loan" from Barnsdall to Seismograph Service Corp. for the South American work.

WORK GOES ON

Aviation Cadet Jordan T. Luhr, of St. Marys, lost his life in his country's service but his efforts for victory still go on. The 26-year-old St. Marys airman was killed in the crash of an army training plane near Valdosta, Ga., Saturday. Shortly after his enlistment last year, Luhr, a former professional model in New York, was selected to pose for artists painting war posters. The most recent poster for which he posed, bearing the slogan "You buy 'em, we'll fly 'em", is appearing as a national advertisement for the sale of war bonds and stamps. In it the smiling, handsome aviator, wearing helmet and goggles, is seated in the cockpit of a plane.

STOP GRIPING
It would be pleasant to record that the American people is awake, at long last, to the fact that we are involved in a total war in which absolutely nobody can avoid making unpleasant sacrifices.

That, however, is not the fact. In the big things, true, the vast majority takes bitter medicine without much complaint. But in the smaller, everyday deprivations which are piling upon us, we are proving to be a nation of bad sports.

The men, young and old, who are called into the fighting services are giving up the comforts of home without a murmur, and accepting patriotically an utter disruption of their economic and social careers.

Wives, parents, children of our citizen soldiers and sailors are bowing to the inevitable courageously—even proudly.

Hundreds of thousands of men and women are donating most or much of their spare time to civilian defense projects, to service on draft boards and rationing boards, to the hum-drum of registrations and to similar necessary but unspectacular wartime duties.

Go around the country and ask those you meet if they are ready and willing to sacrifice—if they realize that great sacrifices are necessary—and you will get a chorus of enthusiastic affirmation. Seek specific instances in which individuals, groups, whole communities are going all out for the war, and you'll find them galore.

But settle down where you will, keep your mouth closed and your ears open, and see what you learn then.

The laundry man is abused hourly because he can't call back for the wash that wasn't ready, and can't make special delivery on the order that might as well have been given him two days earlier.

Intelligent, informed women are forming "clubs" to refuse to carry packages home from stores because, forsooth, the merchants would save the cost of the service they no longer are able to render.

The eastern gasoline vendor refrains from punching a rationing card, or serves 10 gallons and punches one unit, and the motorist drives proudly away. He is a big shot. He has got away with something.

We're willing to work overtime at pay and a half—Saturdays, Sundays and holidays at double time. We're willing to sell anything we have to Uncle Sam—at the highest price we can get.

These things are not true of every individual. They are so nearly universal, however, that no libel on the American people is committed when they are stated as generalities.

How long will it be before we as individuals wake up to the fact that this is the greatest emergency through which the civilized world ever has tried to fight its way? That no sacrifice is too great, except democracy itself, for the preservation of democracy?

NURSES NEEDED
Pennsylvania girls are urged by the University of Pittsburgh School of Nursing to follow in the footsteps of Clara Barton by helping to fill the quota of 33,000 nurses required by the government and the nation's hospitals to meet military and civilian needs.

This appeal would seem to offer a suggestion for many of the girls who were graduated from Warren High School last week, as well as all others who finished grammar school educations this spring.

Francis George, assistant professor of nursing at the school, says 17,000 nurses are needed to staff hospitals throughout the country which are short-handed because of the drain on their staffs by the armed forces. Another 15,000 are needed by the army and navy, and an additional 1,000 are required by veterans' hospitals, which are expanding their staffs.

She says the government will assist prospective nurses by paying tuition, maintenance and textbook costs for the first four months of training, such as at the University of Pittsburgh. The girls' other expenses would total about $45.

The students' expenses for the balance of the three years' training, after they have been admitted to hospitals, will be $100 for books and uniforms. This sum may be paid over an extended period.

High school credits required for the course are English 4, foreign language 2, history 2, algebra 2, laboratory science 1, and 6 in electives. Girls in the upper fourth of their high school class are eligible.

Uncle Sam needs you, girls! Don't let him down!

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S
The Lord is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation;
he is my God, and I will prepare him an habitation; my father's God,

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME
(Second in A Series)
By JACK STINEITZ
WASHINGTON -- Considering the days since Pearl Harbor, one is tempted to make a phrase and say, "Just as Washington has changed its face in the last six months, so has it changed its face."

That is superficial observation.
It is true that nearly 120,000 new workers have come to the capital since December 7—and what may be startling news, more than 50,000 of these have gone home again. But it is also true that few of these, high or low, have made any lasting impression so far on the war effort.

Eastman's huge job of straightening out our rapidly muddling transportation problem is really just getting under way, but it will move like a tornado from here on.
Gasoline rationing, the rubber shortage, railroad congestion, the interstate bus and trucking barriers, the lack of new autos to replace those going into the bone-yard, the mass movement of troops, and some thousand other major transportation ailments are forcing Eastman's job to a crisis.

OF the administration "hod-carriers," nobody has stepped so far forward in these early months of war as Leon Henderson. The price administrator has the job nobody wants and the job that almost everyone agrees is the toughest in Washington today.

New also to his big job (although not to the department of justice) is Attorney General Francis Biddle. The wheels of justice grind too slowly to have raised or lowered Biddle very far in the six months since that fatal Sunday in Hawaii. But with the prosecution on saboteurs, spies, subversive enemy aliens, war contract chiselers, and what-not in his lap, Biddle will eventually have to stand or fall on a record dating virtually from December 7.

Many of the other cabinet members and men and women in key posts are doing jobs that deserve amplified bouquets, but you can hardly call their new faces—even those of Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Knox.
(Tomorrow: Congress.)

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN
By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK—I used to think I was pretty good at estimating people. . . I used to think I could size up a man at a glance. . .
Now, I'm not so sure. . .

There was a guy named Jerry.
. . . He was sort of fat, and slow.
. . . He had a bulldog chin. . .
He wasn't very tall, and he had lost a lot of his hair. . . I used to see him around Broadway, looking lost and dispirited. . . He got a job as a press-agent's assistant, and did a little leg work. He also answered the telephones. This guy Jerry was always soft-spoken and obliging. . . He would gladly run an errand for anybody. He never said much, and never did he lift his voice, or express an opinion.

So I put Jerry down as an amiable lightweight who was so busy doing favors for other people that he never had time to weep for his own private griefs. Just a good guy, with nothing on the ball. You know the type. You see them everywhere you go.

THEN it happened. Somebody told me that Jerry had gone into the Army. As a captain of engineers. . . That he had been assigned to duty on an important engineering project, outside of the country.

I was taken aback. "How in the world did that guy get a commission?" I asked. The man who told me about Jerry snapped me up rather tartly at this. "Why shouldn't he?" he asked. "If he could satisfy the United States government that he is qualified, why can't that satisfy you?"

I thought that over for a minute. "But Jerry, he's only. . .
I know what you're going to say, a stooge, an errand boy. Well, you're wrong."

And then he told me all about Jerry.

This Jerry, this amiable, pleasant "lightweight" was a college graduate. A graduate engineer.

Not only did he win a degree from one of the toughest engineering colleges in the country, he was a Phi Beta Kappa. He went into business for himself, as a construction engineer. He built up that business. His income exceeded $25,000 a year. . .
He was sailing along. A success.
That sort of easy sailing was to go to last. There seems always a little joker in the cards that means the game.

HE LOST his wife. The blow staggered him. His health failed him. He went into a decline, and almost died. One day he threw up his hands. . . I think he wanted to throw up the sponge too. . . It looked like curtains for Jerry. . . But just then one of his friends whom he had known in the old barefoot public school days ran into him. . .
"Adopted" Jerry. . . Gave him little unnecessary chores to do, as a sap to his pride. . . He encouraged him. . . He built him up. . . When the Japs struck, when we went to war with the Germans and the Italians and the rest of the mob, this friend cornered Jerry one night and said,
"Start getting yourself in trim.
There's Asia. There's Australia.
This country needs engineers.
You're elected."

He made Jerry place his application. And take his physical, which was okay. Then the army began to quiz him. . . The army doesn't fool around when it wants men who can do things. They made Jerry face a barrage of interviews. They made him take examinations. . . And Jerry ate
'em up.

So one day he got a telegram from the War Department, and that was that. I shook hands with him when he left. I didn't have the courage to tell him how badly
I had underestimated him.

But I imagine he knew.

A Bundles for Britain Feeding Van Brings Cheer to English Countryside

By Daphne de Maurier (Author of Jamaica Inn, Rebecca, Frenchman's Creek, etc.)

You might wonder what she was, if you were strolling along a Hertfordshire lane, and met her head on as she came around a corner. Big, grey, with a thin red line, a little top-heavy, her gait somewhat rolling to suit her size, and then those significant words written upon her side "Bundles for Britain, U. S. A."

Hot Dinners are served to Young and Old from Bundles' Mobile Canteen

Have the people of America come a caravaning in war time to Great Britain? Continue your walk along to the nearest village, though, and you will see what it is all about. Here is the van, parked opposite the school, and she has part of her side lifted off to form a serving table, and her door is opened, and a member of the W.V.S. is coming down the steps.

Well, you say to yourself, it is a sort of a caravan then, and you step nearer, and sniff the air, because undeniably there is a smell of Irish stew in the air, and it's a cold morning. Yes, by jove, look at the inside of the van! There are some half-dozen or more food containers, and a sink, and cupboards; she is fitted up like a little kitchen, and here come the school-children, shepherded by their teacher, each child bearing his own dish and plate, and then come forward one by one to the serving table, and are helped to Irish stew and to plums and custard.

The member of the W.V.S. who is serving the children, will answer your question. "We have served forty dinners already," she says, "and thirty-five children here will make seventy-five. Afterwards we go on to another village, six miles off, and shall serve another twenty-five, possibly. No, the dinners are not free. Each child pays his fourpence, as you can see, and brings his own dish. Adults can come too, if they wish. (Come on, Johnny, hand up your dish, and hold it carefully now, because the gray may spill.) Yes, it saves the mothers cooking a dinner every day, and catering in these rural districts is so difficult in war time.

DAM THE RIVER AND THE WATER BACKS UP

GALL STONES
DAM THE PROPER FLOW OF BILE

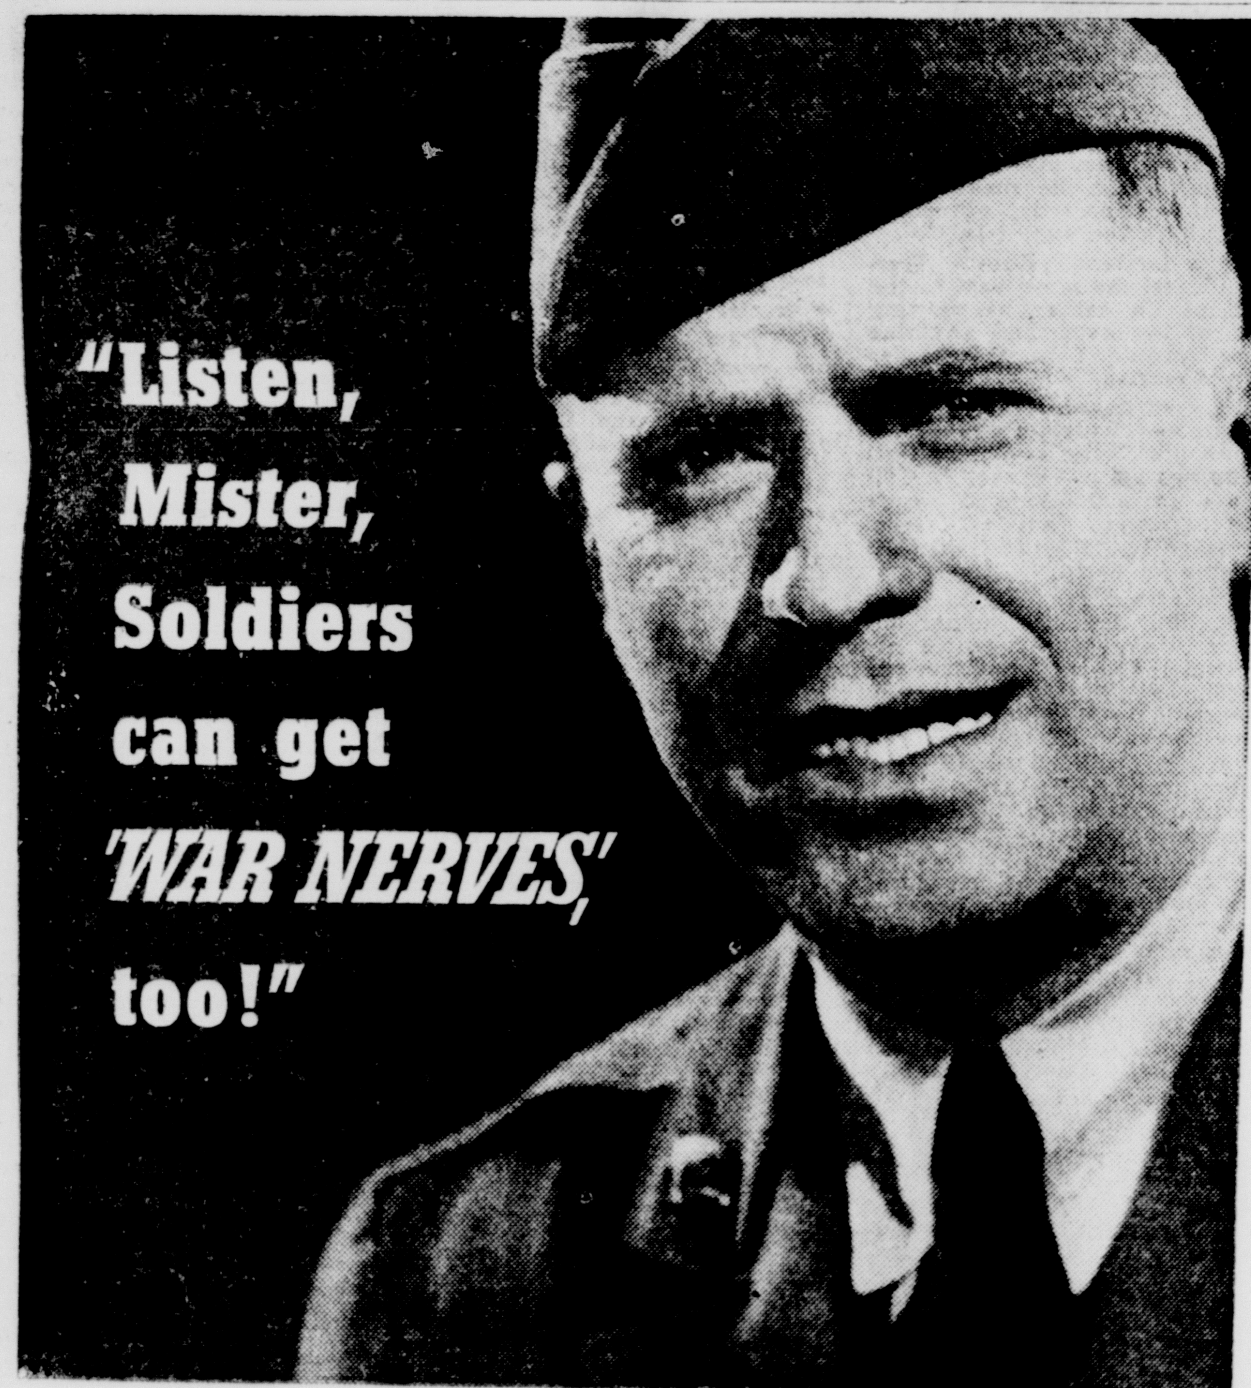

In the liver are countless numbers of tiny ducts, which converge into two, called the right and left "hepatic" ducts. These meet outside the liver and are joined on the way to the intestines, by the "cystic" duct leading from the gall-bladder. Gallstones may occur anywhere in this system, varying in size from the smallest grain to stones large enough to step up the large ducts.

Gallstones are composed largely of cholesterol, a substance normally present in certain quantities in the blood. They occur more often in women than men, usually past 40 years of age, and the person with gallstones is usually overweight. Typhoid fever seems to leave a predisposition to gallstones, caused by the infectious germs leaving roughened surfaces in the ducts or gall bladder, where the cholesterol crystals can find a place to cling and gather bulk.

The most usual symptom of gallstone is "gall-bladder" colic, a severe stomach ache, localizing in the pit of the stomach and often radiating through the back, just beneath the shoulder blades. Violent contraction of the ducts trying to throw off the stone, and rubbing of the tender membranes against the stone sets up this severe pain. Relaxation by heat, hot baths or hypodermic may allow the stone to pass one way or the other and give temporary relief, until the stone gets "stuck" again.

If you know you have gallstones, be careful of your diet, do not overeat, keep your system open, and consult your doctor.

(A sergeant speaks his mind)

"I'm going to give it to you straight.

"We read a lot of stuff about how civilians are fighting 'war nerves.' Going to shows...dancing...reading...having fun to relax from all the grimness today and keeping up their morale.

"Sure, it's a good idea, but don't forget this. Soldiers and sailors can have 'war nerves,' too. I don't mean anything to do with courage and stuff like that. Believe me, they got plenty of nerve to take it—and dish it out—whatever the orders are.

"What I mean is that soldiers, maybe even more so, need shows and dancing and decent places to go when they're on leave. Boredom and monotony during their time off are as bad enemies as any goose-stepping German or Jap. We got to fight them, too.

"That's why everybody in this man's army gives thumbs up to this USO. They're doing a job, Mister. Fighting a fight.

"They're putting on swell shows...running club-houses...providing reading matter...taking care of troops in transit...following the flag wherever the army orders with their mobile units. They're spelling morale in our language with a capital M.

"So listen, all you folks. Next time you see a show or do a little rug-cutting or read a book or light a smoke or just sit down to play a game of gin rummy or listen to the radio in your nice comfortable living room, just remember that there's lots of guys in O. D. and blue that can also use some of same.

"It all adds up to this...we like the job the USO is doing for us...and we hope you on the home front keep it rolling!"

The war chest against "war nerves" needs replenishing. Soon you'll be asked to help. Well, you heard what the sergeant said!

You may make your contribution to the Warren County War Chest and the USO at the places listed elsewhere in this paper.

State Hospital Drops TINY BONHAM 7-0 Fracas At Corry; IS DEFEATED BY CLEVELAND

After losing a 7-0 decision under the Mazdas at Corry Friday night, being set down with only two hits by imported Mike Popovich, Erie semi-pro star, the Warren State Hospital baseballers went to work in earnest against the Jamestown Spiders Saturday afternoon on their home lot and clinched an 8-4 triumph.

Johnny Kane, young left-hander, set down the invaders with seven scattered hits, allowed only one earned run, and showed much improved control over previous starts, in hanging up his first victory of the season.

REACH FINALS IN C. V. C. C. GOLF TOURNEY

Harry Bittenbender and Bill Rice will battle against the pair of Kridler-Hubbard tomorrow in the finals of the four-ball best-all tournament at the Conewago Valley Country Club, after surviving the semi-finals over the weekend.

Kridler and Hubbard whipped Elliott and Dr. Jacobs while Rice and Bittenbender defeated Chuck Blackman, whose partner, C. J. Cray, was not on hand to take part in the semi-final round match.

In the consolation of the tournament Link-Yerg met Ritchie-Barnhart in the semi-finals, the winners to battle Dean Anderson and Mike Charkak, outfielder, who already gained the final round with a triumph over Parshall-Creal.

Thursday of this week, regular men's night program is carded, with the second Calcutta of the season to be held. Art Johnson won last week's Calcutta with Tim Creal runner-up.

Washington-Washington Senators traded Steve Sundra, pitcher, to the New York Yankees for Mike Charkak, outfielder, and Mike Charkak, outfielder, to St. Louis Browns for Roy Cullenbine, outfielder, and reliever Pitcher Bill Trotter. It was a straight player deal.

New York-Suit Out, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Kentucky Derby victor, won Belmont Stakes by traveling mile and a half in 2:29 1/5. Alsab, weary winner of Preakness stakes and Withers mile, second.

Pelham Manor, N. Y.-Greg Rice established American three-mile athletic club won annual Metropoli-tan A. A. U. track title. Don Burnham, Dartmouth sophomore, record of 14 minutes as New York defeated Leslie MacMillan by inches in 4:14.6 mile.

Milwaukee-Wisconsin won Central Collegiate Track title but Harold Stickle of Pittsburgh University captured the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the 220-yard low hurdles.

Rochester, N. Y.-Barney Ewell, Penn State sprinter, surpassed world record in rarely run 200-yard dash with clocking of 18.9, clipping one-tenth second of Charles Paddock's old standard.

PITTSBURGH-Battered Buccaneers handage wounds and revive selves with four successive triumphs over Philadelphia Phils in three days, after losing string of 10 in a row.

NEW YORK-Ernie Bonham, new Yankee mound ace, loses first decision of 1942 season as he blows four-run lead and is nipped, 5-4 by Cleveland Indians.

OLEAN, N. Y.-Jamestown Falcons gain game and a half lead in PONY League by routing second place Olean Oilers, 5-3, in Sunday tussle.

To blackout the windows of a west coast aircraft factory, it took 100 professional painters, working 42 hours a day, five days and five hours to complete the job. They used 4405 gallons of black paint.

Well, they're off. . . Members of the high school and Beatty faculties, not all of them, but several, left as soon as possible last Friday afternoon for their favorite fishing habitat down in Potter county, a trip about 10 of them make annually for a period ranging usually from four to seven days. . . They're a great bunch and we can hardly wait to hear the tales they'll be telling out of school upon returning. . . Director of Athletics J. B. Leiding revealed over the weekend that new cheerleaders for next year have been chosen to lead the Dragon verbal attacks. Betty Coe, Mary Davis and Martha Rasmussen are the new cheerleaders, who will join Gloria Genge, the only one returning from the past season's group. . . If Giard is unable to make the trip to Warren, some 70 miles, next fall, it is possible that Joe Massa's Sheffield High football Wolverines will seek a date on the local schedule. . . What Youngsville will do about football this coming season is uncertain, inasmuch as they lost their coach from last year, and it is not expected that time will permit Ed Hasler, local "Y" physical director helping out down there, to prepare a competent grid aggregation. . . Oddities in the sport news that are becoming sport nuisances: Stories about guys who pitch no-hitters, but lose by a 1-0 score because of issuing too many walks. . . New York fights ending in split decisions with no one satisfied except the promoters, and then not even they are content if the gate wasn't too big. . .

Gail Templeton, former Dragon basketball, now attending Grove City College, has been named track manager for next year. . . He was one of three assistants during the past season. . . Twenty golfers have entered the Warren county open golf championship tournament at this writing, and there still remain two weeks for more to officially submit their names, indicating that the open this year may be the largest in the history of the event. . . And on the golfing front we can't help but notice the unusual interest in events at the Conewago Valley Country Club this year. . . Even though the weatherman postponed the first two weekly programs, golfers have taken to the course with exceptional enthusiasm and the club seems certain to enjoy a banner season. . . Maybe the sports-minded public is regaining its power locally. . . Everything's set, weather permitting (it's a shame to have to use this phrase so often), for the Sunset League opener, which will give back to Warren sport fans the community baseball which has been lost in weeds on Russell Field for the past two years, 1940 and 1941. . . Stoneham and the Eagles invite you to see their season this evening, and Wednesday night the Forge and Hospital really will start things rolling along. . . See you all at the ball game.

Chapter 22

Kiss For A Role

THE moon had evidently decided to be as generous as the weather man, and soon it was high and round, and the sun had rounded the pond. Its soft radiance turned the pond into a sheet of quick-silver. And gliding over this silvery surface moved three canoes.

Joe Neely, in one of them with Daisy Doran, felt strangely pale and nervous. He kept thinking of the six people in the three canoes as mere human atoms drifting upon life's deceptive surface. Where would they all be this time next year?

Would Kathleen have attained her goal? Would Daisy Doran be in a Broadway play and her father in a "curse"? Would Paul Pennell be in Hollywood—a place to which he referred with increasing monotony?

Would Fred DeMille be directing another group of players in another reconstructed barn? Would Ruby Howard be starring in a play? And would he be the author of that play? Six uncertain people on life's troubled sea! (It sounded almost like a poem.) Drifting—drifting—drifting.

"Are you not a very quiet man when you take a girl canoeing?" Daisy asked presently, smiling at Joe from the bow of the canoe, where she sat trailing her fingers through the water.

"No," said Joe, "but—but—well, so much seems at stake for us all, I feel nervous."

"And such a wonderful moon too!" said Daisy. She glanced toward the canoe in which sat Kathleen and Paul. "Those two—they seemed to be more moved by the moon than we are."

Joe stopped paddling for a moment, and he frowned. He wished Daisy hadn't called his attention to the other couple. Paul was not paddling now. He was sitting beside Kathleen. The canoe was taking care of itself. His frown deepened when he saw Paul's arm go about Kathleen's waist, saw him draw her closer—closer—

"I hope they remember they're in a canoe," he said.

"So do I," said Daisy. "One feels so foolish being dumped out in the middle of a lake or a pond."

"Are you speaking from experience?" said Joe.

"Yes, Joe, honey, I am," she acknowledged. "Last summer a local Romeo tried to make love to me in a canoe—and did I go!"

"Him, too, I suppose," said Joe. "I just went to sleep for words!"

said Daisy. "And his enthusiasm for romance was certainly dampened for the time being."

Kid Thoughts

JOE resumed his paddling. And as he did so he found himself wishing that Kathleen couldn't swim—that the canoe would capsize—and that he could play hero and rescue her. "Darned kidish thoughts," he told himself. And then he began wishing something different—that the party was over.

In another canoe Fred and Ruby were talking now.

"You're not going to interfere with Paul's plan to give Kathleen a role—that is if he carries out the plan?" said Fred.

Ruby shook her head. "I don't seem to care one way or the other, Fred," she said. "Anyway, I just haven't the nerve to argue with him—or to fight."

"Well, it could happen, you know."

"Joe's much too young for me, and—"

"And Mr. Frank too old?"

"No, it isn't that at all."

"Then what is it?"

Legionnaires Are Meeting This Evening

One of the most important meetings of the year for members of the Chief Complanter Post will be held at the American Legion Home at 8 o'clock tonight.

Past Commander's Night will be observed with past commanders of the local post occupying the various offices. While the business meeting will be brief there is considerable important business to be transacted. Chief item of business will be nominations for office of junior vice commander and adjutant to fill existing vacancies.

Official invitation to take part in the Moose parade, which will highlight the convention of the Order of Moose, next Saturday will also be extended to members of the Post. The Legion will occupy the 6th division in the parade and have the Warren High School band to lead their division. Members of the post will also be told of plans for the annual stag picnic which will be held on July 15th.

Commander W. I. Walker stated this morning that he is most anxious to have as many members of Chief Complanter Post who can take part in the patriotic parade next Saturday afternoon. A committee from Chief Complanter Post has been working with members of the Moose Lodge for some weeks planning the parade and many Legion members will have a part in the parade as aides to the various divisions. It is expected that 15 bands and drum corps will be on hand and its promises to be one of the largest parades ever held in Warren.

At the conclusion of the business meeting this evening an entertainment will be given. Several acts of vaudeville have been scheduled. Music will be provided by a good orchestra and the balance of the evening will be turned over to an excellent floor show.

These annual past commanders' nights have become increasingly popular with the membership and it is hoped that over 150 members will be present at the meeting and party which will follow. Because so much activity is planned for tonight the meeting will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock.

Following the entertainment a buffet luncheon will be served by members of the Legion's House Committee.

The notice acknowledged that the Germans would place difficulties in the way of the evacuation, but urged Frenchmen to overcome such obstacles.

It was not possible to specify either the time or place of the contemplated operations, it added.
